VOSH 7505 – Accident Investigation (Introduction)

Course Description: Introduction to accident investigation provides an introduction to basic accident investigation procedures and describes accident analysis techniques. The goal of this 2-day course is to help participants gain the basic skills necessary to conduct an effective accident investigation at their workplace. The target audience is the small employer, manager, employee or employee representative who, as part of a firm's safety and health system, would be involved in conducting accident and/or near-miss investigations. Topics include the primary reasons for conducting an accident investigation, employer responsibilities related to workplace accident investigations, and a six-step accident investigation procedure. The course is set up as a facilitated, interactive training session focusing on class discussion and group activities designed to provide the basic information on accident investigation techniques and the methodology and the prevention of accidents. This course includes topics such as identification, examination, evaluation, and preservation of evidence; development of supportive documentation; and costs incurred from accidents. Case studies will be conducted during the presentation to further ensure each student's knowledge and understanding of this subject.
